TUM Mumbai: Indo-German Cooperation and Global Environmental Risks

Event Blurb:

The TUM Dialogue Series Mumbai edition, presents a panel session on German-Indian Cooperation and Global Environmental Risks. Miranda Schreurs, Professor of Climate and Environmental Studies and Dean of Studies from the TUM Department of Governance will chair the session. The panel session will bring together speakers from Germany and India who will share their perspectives on German-Indian relations and efforts to address various pressing environmental problems, including climate change and water management. These are critical themes for the Indo-German Partnership project supported by the DAAD and the UGC. According to the World Economic Forum report, among the top five risks include extreme weather events, a failure to meet climate change mitigation and adaptation needs, natural disasters, biodiversity loss and ecosystem collapse; and human-made environmental damage and disasters.

Chair: Professor Miranda Schreurs, Professor of Environment and Climate Policy, Dean of Studies, TUM School of Governance

Speakers:

- Ms. Sabine Seidler, Head of Division, South Asia, Federal Foreign Office
- Prof. D Parthasarathy, Indian Institute of Technology, Bombay, India Value Fund Chair Professor, Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, Convener, Climate Studies Inter-Disciplinary Programme, Associate Faculty, Centre for Policy Studies, Associate Faculty, Centre for Urban Science and Engineering
