About us

I am looking for a student assistant for my research project 'Political Economy of Digital Sovereignty in Developing Countries' at the Chair for European and Global Governance.

Your profile

- Bachelors degree in the social sciences
- Ability to work independently
- Research interests in the political economy of finance and digital governance
- Very good English language skills, both written and spoken
- Very good MS-Office skills (Word, Powerpoint, Excel)
- Experience with data analysis software programs (NVivo, Excel, R or stata) an asset
- Very good time management skills

Tasks

- Research assistance for a project on the political economy of digital sovereignty in developing countries (especially literature reviews, assistance with data collection and analysis)
- Editorial assistance (for instance for publications, presentations and forms).
- General organizational and administrative tasks as part of the research project (preparation of research visits, assistance with application forms etc.)

We offer

- You will be paid a salary of 15€/hour in line with the official pay scale. Variable working hours (on average 3-6 hours per week); fixed-term contract until 30.09.2024, with a possible extension to 31.12.2024 if the student shows proof of enrollment as student (Immatrikulationsbescheinigung).
- Flexible working hours
- You will be given increasingly independent tasks
- Opportunity to enrich your theoretical knowledge in the fields of political economy of finance, technology and development and gain practical experience in designing a research project.
- Severely disabled applicants will be given preference if they otherwise have essentially the same suitability, ability and professional performance.
- The Munich School of Public Policy seeks to increase the share of women in research positions. We therefore explicitly welcome applications from women.
- As part of your application, you will provide personal data. Please note our data protection information in accordance with Article 13 of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) on the collection and processing of personal data as part of your application
